THE (URSE OF DEAD HORSE (ANYON (HEYENNE SPIRITS

"Infused with a sense of danger, the intricate plot and dramatic storyline create a breathtaking and intense story....An exceptional novel complete with conspiracy, intrigue, and murder that will enthrall everyone who has an affinity for suspenseful thrillers with just a smidgen of the paranormal."

--Readers' Favorite 5-star Review

Synopsis

Charlie Littlewolf returns to his previously shunned native culture to solve his best-friend's murder.

Greed and corruption have infiltrated the once-pristine Colorado Rockies, echoes of years past when silver miners swarmed the area like vermin, precipitating a 19th Century curse. Now a new generation delivers a different form of pollution, among them the most corrupt entity of them all.

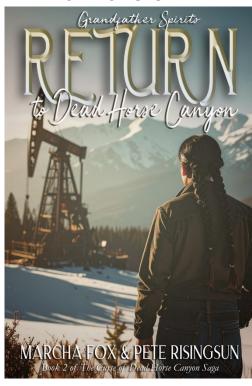

All Sara Reynolds remembers of the wreck that slammed their Silverado to the depths of Dead Horse Canyon is Bryan's dying plea to expose what he found. Why did they kill him? What happened that fateful spring day? Will she and her dead husband's life-long Cheyenne friend, Charlie Littlewolf, discover his secret?

Ceremonies taught by Charlie's medicine man grandfather decades before can connect with the spirits and reveal all things. He shunned them then. Now he needs them, like never before. Coupled with Sara's ethereal clues from the heavens can they find answers in time? Or will the same black ops raiders murder them, too?

THE REVENGE OF DEAD HORSE (ANYON: SWEET MEDICINE SPIRITS - NOVAVOSE

"This finale succeeds with a perfect 10 landing. Very, very highly recommended." -- Readers' Favorite

Synopsis

Charlie completes his ceremonial fast on the Sacred Mountain where he's instructed to restore ancient ceremonies and unite all Native Tribes so that prophecies may be fulfilled.

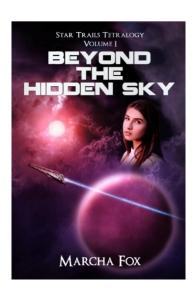

Sara returns home from the hospital paralyzed and in poor condition, physically, mentally, and emotionally. Cheyenne healing protocols provide some relief. She's still unable to walk, but accepts her condition.

Charlie journeys to the Sacred Mountain (Bear Butte State Park) in South Dakota to fulfill his pledge made to his grandfather years before to complete a four-day ceremonial fast.

Before they arrive he receives a texat that Sara was abducted. This occupies his mind such that Sweet Medicine Spirits intervene. He then experiences visions that instruct him to unite all Native Tribes and restore ancient ceremonies outlawed by the white man. This will facilitate fulfillment of prophecies made by Black Elk and Crazy Horse, including full retribution for Black Cloud's curse on Dead Horse Canyon.

Phase I of the underground PURF complex is complete with a gala open house planned concurrent with a Gathering of Indigenous Leaders at Dead Horse Canyon. The group comprised of many tribes performs a ceremony taught by divine sources over a century before that promises to return the land stolen by the white man. The results are epic.

Star Trails Tetralogy Volume I

Science theory is a large part of this story and [is] a "key" to unlock the puzzle of the many developing situations A great book for anyone that wants to learn more about scientific concepts while being thoroughly entertained.

--Amazon Reviewer

Fox supports some of the science in the novel with real, actual, well... science! She's worked for NASA and it shows. I should say, the science isn't distracting from the story; this isn't one of those science-books-masquerading-as-a-novel that I sometimes run into from those who write "hard" science fiction stories.

Sci-fi at its best. This space opera is fast paced and action packed and will leave you breathless. The author developed a storyline that is full of plot twists and adventure.

Synopsis

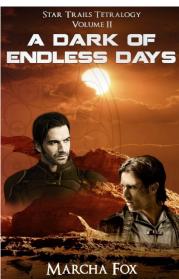

Laren Brightstar, the galaxy's premier terralogist, knows he's a target since refusing a job from power-hungry despot and Integrator proponent, Augustus Troy. To place as much distance as possible between his family and his devious nemesis, he accepts a prestigious position as Director of Planetary Design on the primitive world, Cyraria.

While enroute to their new home via starcruiser, however, his teenage daughter, Creena, is jettisoned in a malfunctioning escape pod. Whether or not it's an accident is soon questioned-the ship's captain is none other than the infamous Troy. Laren demands use of Troy's personal ship so he and his son, Dirck, can go find her, which further complicates an already volatile situation.

When the family members left behind, i.e., Laren's bondling, Sharra, and their young son, Deven, arrive on Cyraria, Sharra confronts a difficult decision. Her choice ultimately leaves her and Deven destitute on a hostile world where hunger or extreme weather conditions threaten to bring their demise, unless Laren and Dirck return.

Meanwhile, Laren and Dirck encounter a multitude of hazards incident to superluminal/warp speed travel, taking them into the future while Creena desperately attempts to find her way back, thinking all is well.

Thus begins a family saga adventure where, torn apart by space and time, parents and children alike face hostile Integrator forces them forever.

Star Trails Tetralogy Volume II

In the vein of old science fiction literature this story could end up as another classic. Its original, with all the components, technology, other world and races, and a contact with Earth.

Opinions about earth and the descriptions of Earthlings and our society sent me into fits of laughter. Fox once again does an exceptional job building character and making her created universe a reality.

I loved [the techno-babble] and it all sounded plausible explaining distant solar systems, weather patterns, alien life and strange religions. Uber Cool!!! This sequel is nothing less than extraordinary in its vast scale. Family friendly scifi of the highest standard. Very highly recommended.

Synopsis

The second book in the Star Trails series opens with the Brightstars' collective situation more dire than ever before. Laren and his son, Dirck, must modify their meager shelter to withstand Cyraria's lethal weather which will soon reach temperatures high enough to boil water. Their attempt to construct a heat-exchanger (air conditioner) is already fraught with engineering challenges when they're slammed with further restrictions via financial woes imposed by Augustus Troy, who's demanding restitution for damages incurred during their futile trek to find and rescue Creena.

Laren is subsequently arrested and incarcerated as a political prisoner, leaving teenage Dirck to finish the heat exchanger in addition to looking after his mother and younger brother. His new-found friend, Win, brings support and insider knowledge, but whether it's enough to assure survival against formidable Integrator forces remains to be seen.

Meanwhile, Creena and her cohorts land on a primitive planet known as Earth hoping to find starcruiser passage to her homeworld. Their ship is impounded, leaving her

Synopsis

In Star Trails Volume III the story takes a darker turn as Laren continues to languish in Territorial prison and the heat-exchanger fails. Dirck, his mother, younger brother, Deven, and friend, Win, seek shelter in a network of caverns as guests of the bnolar, an indigenous species which is both benevolent and telepathic. when he and his mother share a veridical dream that reveals his father is in grave danger. Dirck and Win contact Laren's brother, Jen, to fabricate a daring rescue before Laren is exiled for rejecting Troy's final offer.

In spite of numerous complications, their efforts succeed, Laren granted asylum as well as a prestigious position from Bryl Woeyel, governor of a bordering region. Discovering that their ballome was destroyed by a massive storm, the others remain in the caverns under the façade of being dead. This conveniently facilitates covert operations and building a resistance force known as the Clique when their supportive Territorial General is assassinated in an Integrator scheme to gain planetary control.

Creena eventually makes it home, but her volatile relationship with Dirck continues. Suspicions that Bryl is putting the moves on their father (a culturally acceptable practice on Bryl and Laren's home world), their concerns distract them from detecting Troy's plot to ambush their father while working in a research lab on Cyraria's moon.

Arrested for treason, Laren is immediately secured onboard a prison ship enroute to Bezarna, a blackhole from which there will be no return.

Synopsis

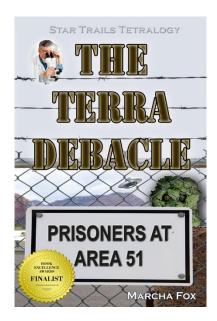

Star Trails Volume IV continues with Laren onboard a prison ship destined for a blackhole. Nonetheless, Creena hasn't given up on reuniting her family. When her younger brother, Deven, discovers another crystal with the ability to bend time, she's convinced it's what they need to save their father. Dirck and Win depart from the caverns for the Clique's military outpost, but Creena remains behind with her mother and Deven hoping to unlock devenite's secrets.

Before doing so, however, Integrator forces invade the caverns. Forced to flee using what they know of devenite's mysterious properties, they arrive at the outpost, but several days in the future. While they're lost in the universal time dimension, Dirck believes everyone has perished.

When Creena et al eventually arrive, Dirck is a changed man. He and Creena finally begin to work together to save their father, not realizing he's doing everything possible himself to compromise the prison ship and return home. Meanwhile, Integrator scientists develop the ultimate psibased weapon which can destroy all for whom they have a mindprint. Dirck and Creena's efforts then must turn to defending their outpost and its occupants from annihilation.

Collective efforts on the part of several individuals contribute to their success as well as the intervention needed for Laren to guide the prison ship home, bringing the family together at last.

THE TERRA DEBACLE: PRISONERS AT AREA 51

(Side Story to Volume II)

" Marcha Fox has combined fact, fiction, speculation & just plain fabulous story telling in this fast, fun & furiously entertaining tale."

"Scintillating science and side-splitting humor."

"Unique and titillating sci-fi entertainment."

"A dark version of 'ET: The Extraterrestrial.""

"As a biology teacher...I will always think differently about plant chloroplasts & bulbs in the future. A fantastic story!"

"This is a brilliant story, extremely well written and with great character development. It is off-the-wall in a way that is similar to how Tom Robbins grabs the reader and shakes him. The research is profound and convincing."

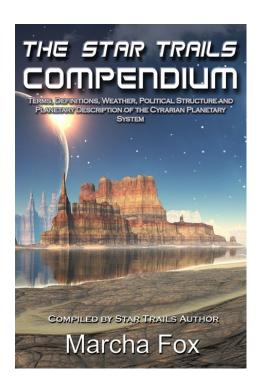

Synopsis

It's May 30, 1978 and a normal night at Hill Air Force Base in Ogden, Utah—until a bogey shows up in their air space. It gets even more bizarre when the UFO requests permission to land, then changes its mind. Too late; F-16s are already escorting it to the ground. A human girl in her early teens and a robot exit the craft, a strange botanical lifeform found onboard by a USAF landing party. The vehicle, robot, and the weird plant are impounded and subsequently sent to Area 51.

NASA astrobiologist, Gabriel Greenley, PhD, is called in to study this new lifeform, which at first appears similar to a domestic botanical species known as oxalis. When he attempts to take a leaf sample, Greenley perceives vehement resistance, indicating the specimen is highly intelligent and potentially dangerous. He backs off, frustrated, desperate to investigate this exotic botanical species that combines sentience with a metabolism based on photosynthesis.

Meanwhile, the specimen, a flora peda telepathis named Thyron from the planet Sapphira, is investigating his new environment through all frequencies of the electro-magnetic spectrum as well as his expansive suite of psychic abilities, which includes remote viewing.

Greenley eventually gets his leaf sample and makes a groundbreaking discovery that he can never share, due to his Top Secret security oaths and research agreement. Eventually, however, he's confronted by an ethical dilemma that forces him to make a treasonous and potentially deadly decision.

Synopsis

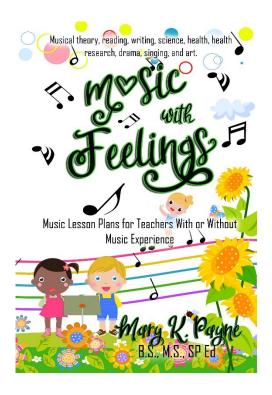

If you enjoyed the Star Trails Tetralogy, i.e. Beyond the Hidden Sky; A Dark of Endless Days; A Psilent Place Below; and Refractions of Frozen Time, this compendium is designed to further enrich the experience. Details too cumbersome to include in the stories are explained via a glossary of terms and expanded descriptions of the political structure, weather patterns, and Cyraria's indigenous race, the bnolar.

As a bonus, topical discussion guides at the chapter level are included as well for those who would like to explore the concepts in these stories at a deeper level, such as book club members and educators, the latter of which could use Star Trais to stimulate interest in numerous scientific or sociological topics.

About the Author

Marcha Fox is a skilled writer with a bachelor's degree in physics coupoled with a successful career in the aerospace industry which included over twenty years at NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas. Science fiction she read as a child inspired her to pursue a technical career, though she always wished they'd included more science. Thus, these are the books she would have liked to read when she was a young reader.

Music Lesson Plans for Teachers With or Without Music Experience

Synopsis

This guide was designed specifically for substitute teachers who may find themselves in an uncomfortable situation if they get called to teach an elementary school music class for which they have no training.

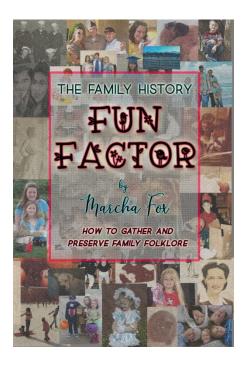

Within its easy-to-read pages, the author shows how to conduct entertaining and informative lessons the students will long remember. Suitable for those who want to teach elementary school children something about the joy of music, yet lack music training or background themselves, this book can be a life-saver for substitute teachers, parents, and home-schoolers alike.

Contains five separate lesson plans with titles: 1. What is Music?; 2. Making Your Instruments Talk to You; 3. Art with Music; 4. Songs for all Occasion; and 5: Music Loves Energy. Different activities accompany each one. Simple note identification and count value exercises are included. Lessons include musical theory, reading, writing, science, health, research, drama, singing and art.

About the Author

Mary K. Payne graduated from San Jacinto College with an Elementary Music Degree in 1971. She then graduated from the University of Houston with a Bachelor's Degree in Elementary Education in 1974 followed by a Master's degree in 1978. She also earned a Special Education Certificate in 1985 from University of Houston Clear Lake. She has taught regular, special, and bilingual education classes in every grade from 1st to 12th for 39 years.

After retiring, she still finds time to tutor students and consult parents. A talented singer, she has sung The Star-Spangled Banner for the past 27 years as part of the opening ceremonies for Houston Astros Baseball games. She is the mother of two grown children and has two grandchildren. Her love for children and music inspired her to write this helpful book.

THE FAMILY HISTORY FUN FACTOR

How to Gather and Preserve Family Folklore

"This book has given me all kinds of ideas how to go about putting family stories together."

"I never knew how important folklore and folklife were until I read this book. The book is well-written and I can relate to the material very well."

"We bought this book in hopes of rekindling interest in family history in our children and were not disappointed. . . A great source of simple and practical suggestions for remembering, gathering, and recording memories before they are lost."

Synopsis

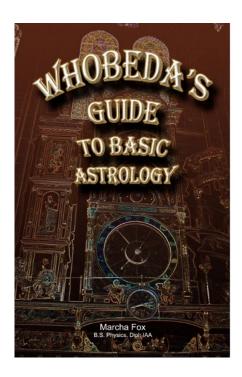

Family histories are often boring compilations of pedigree charts and dry narratives. Family folklore opens the door to everyday experiences and emotions that bring individuals alive. It's also an excellent way to get children involved in the process and started early on compiling their own personal history.

This handy guide provides all the information you need to start discovering, identifying, and collecting your own family's folklore. It includes descriptions of which genres are included and examples as well as a memory-jogging checklist and resources for those who might want to take it to the next level.

About the Author

Marcha Fox is the mother of six children, seventeen grandchildren and at last count, five great-grandchildren. She has a Bachelors' Degree in physics with a minor in English from Utah State University where she first discovered family folklore.

Since retiring from a two-decade career as a NASA contractor in Houston, Texas she devotes her time to writing, her two cats and various hobbies. She has lived in New York, California, Utah and Texas and currently makes her home in the Texas Hill Country.

WHOBEDA'S GUIDE TO BASIC ASTROLOGY

"Fun, witty and informative. . . An absolute must read! Astrology is a very difficult subject to learn and comprehend. Yet, Whobeda breaks down this information in a way that is easy to retain."

"If you're into or interest about the subject, start with this book. You'll be glad you did. Five stars only because I can't give it a hundred."

"Written with wit and candor, this book is a must have for beginners as well as seasoned professionals. You feel like you're sitting in the kitchen with a dear friend as she shares her delicious astro insights. It's a complete delight. Ms. Fox is a treasure!"

Synopsis

If you want to learn more about astrology but currently know nothing more than your own Sun Sign, then this is the book for you! This easy to comprehend guide provides all the information you need to understand astrology's basic principles and terminology in addition to some of its many applications.

This guide explains how this ancient cosmic art allows you not only to understand yourself and those around you at a deeper level but can also aid in career selection, parenting, getting along with others (both at home or in the workplace), and even selecting the best time for any endeavor. If you already consult with an astrologer the information within will help you speak "astrologese" and thus get even more out of your professional readings.

About the Author

"Whobeda," a name which came about in an interesting way, is the pseudonym for Marcha Fox, the story of which she shares with a few select friends and clients with the world at large left to wonder. She graduated from Utah State University with a Bachelor's Degree in physics in 1987 and from the International Academy of Astrology in 2012. She worked as a NASA contractor from 1988-2009, at which time she retired and came completely out of the closet as an astrologer. Her website, ValkyrieAstrology.com, first appeared on the internet in 2006. Her clients span the globe, their testimonials available on the website. She currently makes her home in the Texas Hill Country, USA.
